Lookin' Around with "Mac"

Spectators who have witnessed our annual parades for many years say that Tuesday's mammoth spectacle was the most colorful, varied, and complete that ever passed down Broad street. It was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by a capacity crowd which jammed every foot of viewing space along the line of march.

A great wreath of credit should rest on the scores of persons who prepared, organized, and directed the parade. It was a fitting climax to four jam-packed days of celebration.

——M——

Elmer Stevens' seven-minute patriotic oration was a masterpiece of timely admonition; because it was timely in a sense of national urgency, it is unfortunate that more celebrants did not pause long enough to heed it. Incidently, Dick Knee selected as theme song on his public address system the popular tango with the line "It's later than you think . . . " An ominous note made striking in a background of revelry.

——M——

If you were mystified by the Mr. Bones dance in the marionette show: here's the secret. Bill Steward does it with his teeth. He manipulates with his hands the strings which give the puppets action. Two sets of strings run through the skeleton's bones, one attached to rings at the joints. By pulling up this second set of strings with his teeth, Steward can simulate two sets of bones dancing in midair. There now, simple, isn't it. Or is it?

——M——

As the celebration opened, Nevada City received a lot of outside publicity regarding Chief of Police Max Solaro's attempt to close up the gambling joints. From all reports, he might as well have saved his breath. Max is undoubtedly earnest and competent but there was every evidence that an authority higher than his eased the situation for the operators.

In two recent elections, municipal and county, where there was an undercurrent of controversy around the gambling issue, the voters showed unmistakably that they do not want gambling as an integral part of community life. Apparently final authority in Nevada City is still deaf to that mandate.

Can open gambling in the hands of imported professional dealers be condoned or encouraged just because we have an excellent opportunity to gouge those guests who prefer to be suckers?

——M——

Nevada City's main streets are ideally constructed to induce a carnival air. The streets in the evenings were packed with folks renewing old friendships, visiting, and just having a good time. It was this spirit of sustained fantasy which made it possible to string out the celebration for four days; a feat which would be impossible in less favored towns. The splendid pioneer exhibits in show windows on Broad and Commercial were immensely popular with visitors, helped to carry out the centennial theme realistically.

——M——

A long dose of super-heated weather which landed astraddle our celebration didn't seem to reduce enthusiasm. It is probable that fiercer heat elsewhere may have accounted for the record crowd of over 20,000 which lined

20,000 ATTEND NC PARADE AND CELEBRATION

Tradition keynoted the four-day Nevada City Fourth of July Centennial Celebration that officials estimated was witnessed and participated in by about 20,000 persons.

Police Chief Max Solaro woke everyone up at dawn Tuesday with 13 bone-rattling blasts of dynamite from the top of Sugar Loaf Tuesday morning.

The climax of the four-day celebration was the big parade on Tuesday morning, and it fulfilled all tradition from its grand marshall, Goddess of Liberty, floats, and firemen to the mounted units.

Elmer Stevens, orator of the day in 1915 at the age of six, was orator of the day this year, delivering a speech based on an 1866 speech of Aaron A. Sargent, Nevada county pioneer great.

The traditional water fight between the fire departments of Nevada City and Grass Valley ended in the traditional draw and the traditional soaking of the nearest spectators.

The tradition of square and folk dancing was beautifully and gracefully demonstrated by the Nuggeteers, Goldancers and the Rough and Ready Square Dance club at several performances in the life of the celebration.

Athletics had its share in the celebration with ring sports at the Pine street stadium in front of the Elks hall and a baseball game at Pioneer park where the gentlemen from Grass Valley whipped the ruffians from Nevada City 6-5 in ten innings.

Frank Stewart with his variety show, and Verle Gray with a water pageant kept the evening hours enlivened for the milling throng. Band concerts and a featured concert by the Grass Valley Miners Chorus added to the evening enjoyment.

Ray Spickelmier, president of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, was chairman of the general committee. Carl J. Tobiassen was parade chairman. I. C. Bell was in charge of the coaster derby, and Dick Knee kept the crowd well informed with his efficient sound system.

Ronnie Tobiassen, 9 year old son of Supervisor and Mrs. Carl Tobiassen was marshal of the junior parade Saturday and when the kids parade was integrated into Tuesday's parade, he led the long procession down Broad on his pony, bearing in his hand the stars and stripes.

Elza Kilroy, marshal of the parade, led the adult divisions on a white horse. The marshal was resplendent in white and wore a feathered cockade and sash.

Sierra Chapter of the Gold Star Mothers rode in a car and were followed by the colors escorted by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Boy Scouts.

The officers of the day, Spickelmier, Robert Paine, and Stevens, were followed by Thomas H. Taylor, mayor of Nevada City, and county officials.

The Nevada City high school band, fronted by high-stepping majorettes provided the first of music-playing units.

Miss Wanda Stinson, as the Goddess of Liberty, dressed in a simple white drape robe gathered with a golden rope, was a beautiful personification of the queen of the day. The Nevada City Soroptimist club did themselves proud in the float they prepared to bear the goddess on her tour. The magnificent float was a perfect setting as a vehicle for the handsome goddess.

The Rotary club featured Kenny Baker as the young George Washington cutting down the cherry tree.

The Young America float was followed by the Redmen, with Judge George Washington Gildersleeve reading the Declaration of Independence in an American Revolution scene.

The Rebekah lodge float was followed by the Nevada County Historical Society depicting Doc Buffington and George Hargrave washing gold in one float and E.

TOBIASSEN FAMILY DOMINATES HOLIDAY

You can say the Tobiassen family was evident at the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration.

Papa Tobiassen, Carl J., that is, for 12 years sheriff of Nevada county and current supervisor of the first district, was chairman of the parade committee and was responsible for arranging and assigning places in the big parade.

Mrs. Tobiassen participated in the parade, riding in the shining convertible that is the current automobile of Davey Tobiassen. Mrs. Tobiassen was a representative of Sierra Chapter, Gold Star Mothers.

Davey, in addition to furnishing the vehicle for the Gold Star Mothers, participated in the boxing and wrestling shows staged by his bigger brother, Elton. Elton also participated in the boxing show.

Bill Tobiassen made himself generally useful around the celebration, supplying a spot of music here and there, and serving as escort for the Goddess of Liberty—Miss Wanda Stinson, who is Bill's fiancee.

Ronnie, nine years old, was marshal of the children's parade both on Saturday and Tuesday. He was resplendent in patriotic colors astride his pony.

And the younger generation got into the act. Patricia, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Tobiassen, participated in the children's parade.

Hearkening to the whirring wings of the stork, Mrs. Mildred Music, daughter of the family, confined her participation to being a spectator.

LIONS CLUB OFFICERS INSTALLED WEDNESDAY

Stanley Wright was installed president of the Nevada City Lions club Wednesday night at the Deer Creek Inn. Robert Jefford, international counselor, was installing officer.

Other officers installed were Cliff Jacobsen, first vice president; Onda Smith, second vice president; Allen Clapp, secretary; William Mullis, treasurer; Kenneth Zurflueh, Tail Twister; Gordon Lawlor, Lion Tamer; Grady Campbell and Dr. Walter Mullis, directors.

The Lions club is sponsoring an old-time dance tomorrow night, and instruction will be given by the Goldancers.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Farmer of San Luis Obispo, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harmon of Kansas City were guests at Wednesday's get-together.

ALISON SIMMONS DIES SUDDENLY ON FOURTH

Alison Simmons, 45, former mayor of Grass Valley and bank official in Grass Valley, died of a heart attack Tuesday evening.

Simmons retired last year as mayor after serving four years. He was born in Tombstone, Ariz., but grew up and was educated in Grass Valley.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; daughter, Dorothy Jean; mother, Mrs. Emma Simmons; and brother, Arlon, all of Grass Valley.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Hooper-Weaver mortuary, Grass Valley, with Rev. Donald Getty, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Masonic rites will also be observed. Interment will be in the Masonic cemetery.

BARRETT WARNS NO SWIMMING IN OLYMPIA

No swimming will be permitted in Lake Olympia swimming pool according to a warning released this week by Thomas Barrett, Nevada county probation officer.

Barrett said the place has been fenced and posted as the water has been declared polluted and unfit for swimming.

Barrett stated he has caught several youths swimming at the lake and warned that action will be taken in the future against anyone found trespassing on the property.

GAMBLING RUNS WIDE OPEN FOR CELEBRATION

Gambling was wide open in Nevada City during the four days of its Centennnial Celebration on Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The gambling continued despite two orders by Chief of Police Max Solaro that it be stopped. The second order Tuesday afternoon succeeded in closing all blackjack, dice tables and chuck-a-luck games, but slot machines continued to operate for what little time remained in the celebration.

The city police made investigations to see if gambling operations were being conducted. The tables and machines took recesses during those periods.

Most businessmen who had the gambling devices in operation stated they were locally operated and local dealers were hired.

One house imported professional dealers and operators for a 30 percent cut of the take.

There was some dishonest dealing spotted during the games and one blackjack dealer had a phenomenal streak of luck—running himself twenty straight unbeatable hands.

The gambling and its attendant publicity in the metropolitan press and on the radio undoubtedly accounted for part of the record-breaking crowd here during the celebration.

SUPERVISORS REJECT PERSONNEL SURVEY THAT COST $1,200

After authorizing a personnel survey of Nevada county jobs and salaries that cost $1,200 to execute, the Nevada county board of supervisors rejected it in its entirety three to one Wednesday afternoon. Frank Rowe was the only supervisor present who endorsed the survey with his vote. Supervisors Carl J. Tobiassen, J. C. Coughlan and Warren Odell voted against adoption. Henry G. Loehr was not in attendance.

The board did authorize Recorder John Nettell to include $6,000 in his new budget to purchase a photo-recording machine.

The board will meet again on Monday as a board of equalization.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT BACK IN COURTHOUSE

Nevada county welfare department is once more located in the courthouse, following completion of transfer of records, equipment and personnel Friday.

Nevada county assumed financial responsibility of the aged and assistance program beginning with the new fiscal year last Saturday.

The entire staff of the welfare department is located in offices on the second floor of the courthouse.

The Commercial street location was abandoned in an economy move by the board of supervisors.

George Lowry is welfare director.

MRS. ADELINE CONNER VERY ILL IN HOSPITAL

For the first time in many years Mrs. Adeline Merriam Conner's column "Just Wonderin'" does not appear in The Nugget.

Mrs. Conner is seriously ill in the Nevada county hospital where she was admitted Wednesday.

Fred Conner, her husband, said very little hope is held for her recovery.

COFFEY DIES

George W. Coffee, 55, native of Nevada City, and chairman and president of Pacific Tin Consolidated corporation since 1945, died Tuesday of a heart attack at his home in New York.

HANS RONNINGEN AND BOB DANOS COASTER CHAMPS

Bob Danos, 13, won the junior championship and Hans Ronningen, 15, took top honors as senior champion in the final heats of the Dynamite Box derby Tuesday, held on Broad street as part of the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration.

Young Ronningen, driving a sleek hard-wheeled coaster sponsored by G & H Pharmacy, made the best time of the three-day derby when he flashed down the Broad street course in 46 seconds.

Young Danos, driving an all-green coaster with conventional soft wheels, made the best time of 60 seconds in his last race. He raced for the Grass Valley Union, nosing out freckle-faced Joe Merkey, The Nugget driver, by two seconds.

I. C. Bell, chairman of the derby, awarded $105 in cash to first and second place winners in the seven heats in the Monday races. The presentation was made formally at the variety show on Monday evening. No cash was awarded in the final three heats for selection of the champion on Tuesday afternoon.

Boys who each won $10 as winners of their heats in the Monday semi-finals were: Joe Merkel, Nevada City Nugget; Paul Penrose, Haddy's Service Station; Bob Danos, Grass Valley Union; David Mott, Berliner & McGinnis; Jack Steinhoff, Bob Tamblyn's Agency; Bud Seeburg, News and Novelty; and Hans Ronningen, G & H Pharmacy.

Drivers winning second place money of $5 each were Kenneth Jenkins, Hansen's Paint Store; Jimmy Dicheare, The Hut; Bobbie Tonella, Grass Valley Ford Agency; Neil Jenkins, the Bottle Shop; David Tonella, Success Cafe; Jimmy Williams, Bret Harte No. 1; and Wally Brooks, Arch's Service Station.

The fourteen boys who won places out of the 38 original starters were featured in the three heats Tuesday. Bob Danos and Joe Merkel were first and second in the first heat, David Tonella and Jimmy Williams were one-two in the second and Hans Ronningen and Wally Brooks flashed down to the finish in the final race.

It was estimated that Nevada City merchants who sponsored the racers had spent over $600 on the first coaster derby to be held here as part of the annual celebration.

Three days of racing opened Saturday afternoon with the 38 boys racing in pairs against time. It was during this series that weaknesses were quickly discovered, allowing drivers to make minor repairs on their homemade vehicles before the semi-finals Monday. Five coasters were in minor crashes or wabbled out of competition, three came to complete stops enroute, and one "clipped" an intoxicated pedestrian in a spectacular crash. A bystander reported that the uninjured but jolted pedestrian picked himself up without losing a drop.

Monday and Tuesday Ike Bell jeeped the boys up Broad street from the Plaza to the Methodist church, each heat being towed slowly on a long rope. Michel Lipman was starter, Al Woods was chief timer and Wilson McKenney was clerk. Bob Tamblyn and Ken Wray worked the mikes. Howard Smith and Stanley Hornberger relayed information between the top and bottom of the hill via walkie-talkies.

VARIETY SHOWS MAY CONTINUE IN SUMMER

Continuance of the variety shows that made such hits during the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration may be continued on an every two weeks basis during the summer, according to Frank Stewart, who emceed the shows.

Stewart said the program will be sponsored by the Nevada City Junior Chamber of Commerce, and merchants, and would be held on Pine street.

Stewart said Jerry Austin has volunteered to donate music for one of the programs of the series.

AMERICA MUST FULFILL DESTINY SAYS SPEAKER

"This generation must fulfill its destiny or perish in the pages of history," declared Elmer Stevens, orator of the day for the patriotic exercises held in Nevada City on Tuesday, July 4, as a part of the Centennial Celebration.

Stevens, history and speech instructor of Grass Valley high school, a native born resident of the county, and an orator of repute since he delivered the 1915 Fourth of July speech at the age of six years, gave a masterful speech, that was excellently delivered. Stevens based his speech on one delivered July 4, 1866, by Aaron A. Sargent, one of Nevada county's first leading citizens.

Stevens' speech was preceded by the reading of excerpts from the Declaration of Independence by his 15-year-old son, Jan, and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Lynn Bates of Grass Valley.

They were introduced by Robert Paine, chairman of the patriotic observances committee.

Paine briefly touched on coopeeration between Nevada City and Grass Valley contributed a major part toward the success of the celebration. Paine also pointed out that the words that were sung by Mrs. Bates, read by Jan Stevens, and delivered by Elmer Stevens, although a century or

ASSESSED VALUATION OF COUNTY IS HIGHER

Nevada county's assessed valuation climbed nearly one million dollars the past fiscal year, according to figures released Wednesday by Assessor Philip Scadden. The increase is $969,160.

Scadden and his staff assessed the county at $25,181,090 for 1950 compared to $24,211,930 in 1949.

Scadden turned the assessment rolls over to the board of supervisors Wednesday. The board will meet Monday, July 10 and Monday, July 17, as a board of equalization to hear protests against assessments.

Assessed value of Nevada City in 1950, according to Scadden, is $1,559,650. Grass Valley is assessed at $3,210,410.

NO GUESTS IN HOTEL DE CLINK OVER HOLIDAY

Police Chief Max Solaro was a very unhospitable host over the four-day holiday celebration of Nevada City's Centennial. He didn't have a guest in his Hotel de Clink.

Solaro said he didn't even get a report on any fist-fights beyond a few preliminary swiping of the air by stews that didn't develop into body contact.

The only damage reported during the celebration were two broken window panes at Flindt's jewelry shop on Commercial that was caused by an exploding firecracker.

GRIZZLY CREEK FIRE BURNS 8 ACRES ON 4TH

A Fourth of July fire burned eight acres of cut-over timber in the Grizzly creek area northeast of Columbia before it was under control by late afternoon.

A crew of about fifty men recruited from holidaying men in Nevada City fought the fire at its peak. The alarm was sounded about 10 a.m., just about the time the big parade got underway.

GAMBLING

Nevada City had wide open gambling for most of the days of the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration.

That in itself is nothing new and not extraordinarily newsworthy. Nevada City is a town built on a heritage of strong men who wrested the gold from Mother Earth with vigorous vitality—a vitality that could not be sated by relaxation with pink-tea games of tiddlewinks and croquette. The miner, the forty-niner, and the pioneer relaxed as hard as he worked, and the more dangerous, the more lawless it was the better he relaxed. As a result he left to his children and grandchildren a heritage of disrespect for prohibitory laws against his normal relaxations of drinking, chasing women and gambling.

The type of gambling that Nevada City had over its four-day holiday was not conducive toward bringing back the tourist for the next celebration and a possible risque tour of the demi-monde world of "illegal" gambling. Nevada City, as evidenced by two of its most recent elections, wants to run its demi-monde its own way, without guidance or importation of the big-time operators.

The businessmen who brought in the professional gamblers got caught with either crooked gamblers or dealers with an extraordinary run of phenomenal luck—all for the dealer.

In one local business house we observed a blackjack dealer run himself twenty straight unbeatable hands. Now that could be phenomenal luck. In the army, that kind of luck would have called for new decks, a thorough scrutiny of the dealer's actions and possibly a broken arm or two. In another house a dealer was caught cheating several times.

We were slipped a counterfeit 50-cent coin for change in another business house, but neither Solaro nor Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins had any reports of counterfeit money being passed.

The gambling continued wide open until Tuesday afternoon despite two orders to close by Chief of Police Max Solaro. And when the tables were closed—the celebration was nearly over.

Nevada City will probably never prohibit gambling, and probably will never want it prohibited, but Nevada City is completely capable of conducting its own gambling operations.

If we are going to have gambling operations during our Fourth of July celebrations let's conduct the operations ourselves and not import dealers and operators who only care about how much coin they can carry away from town and not be too particular about the honesty of their illegality.—kww.

AMERICA MUST FACE DESTINY SAYS STEVENS

so old, were as applicable today as when they were written.

Elmer Stevens' speech in full:

"On this day as we celebrate our 174th anniversary of American independence, we observe the sublime art by which a nation was born and rejoice in the strength and glory which our nation has attained. We meet as a free people of a great republic ready to defend again if necessary the fundamental principles of the declaration.

"Over 84 years ago Aaron Sargent, a foremost pioneer and outstanding citizen of Nevada county, stood on a similar platform on this corner. It was immediately following the Civil war, a period in which Sargent made his contribution as a citizen and said, 'our fathers declared that all men are created equal, endowed with liberty—their sons struck the chains from the last slave. Our fathers created a united nation—their sons have saved the unity of that nation.' And then Sargent stated, 'Today this nation is capable of higher achievement in war and broader enterprise in peace than ever before.' How prophetic were these words?

"Americans have been thinking, speculating on these principles of democracy ever since we went into business for ourselves way back in 1776. We developed our own government, courts, schools, and a way to translate these principles into practice. It's true we haven't achieved perfection and we are fundamentally weak in some, but in terms of just a generation ago, we have come a long ways. For the process is a continuous one, and each generation is expected to adjust itself to changing problems. No thinking American today can lose faith simply because there are new problems.

"But what every thinking and reasonable man can and must worry about is whether we Americans are prepared to meet these problems without losing those principles.

"In Aaron Sargent's day the problem was unity of a nation, reconstruction, the completion of the work on the frontier.

"In our day the fundamental problem is to make the principles work at home and defend our system from attack from without—to preserve peace in a war-weary world and to fight for them if necessary within the frame work of the United Nations.

"Our country began when a group of men faced the important truths of that time that were pressing issues—they showed responsibility, courage when they wrote, 'We hold these truth to be self-evident,' and what they held self-evident—was that all men are created equal and in their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"The time has come when Americans must again face the realities of their existence, face once again a tremendous responsibility. To meet the expanding forces of Communism, Fascism, we must not adopt their forms at home or adopt their practices in exacting service from each other. The best defense of democracy is a better functioning of democracy. We must start today—not promise a dynamic democracy with full rights to work as the dictators of Europe, not tomorrow but today—now. There are no laws that can exact true Americanism—there are no laws that create work, homes, physical comfort or spiritual autonomy. Our pioneers who came through these hills asked for no subsidies from their government, but the freedom to work out their own salvation unmolested. No these are hard won and only within the reach of a strong and democratic people who have a positive goal.

"As a people we need to know—as the people in the days of Aaron Sargent—that a unity of purpose is needed—a unity of action. In the next year or so we are going to need to stop being Democrats and Republicans in the selfish sense. In other words we must think of the next generation, instead of the next election; we must practice democracy instead of just giving lip service to it.

"The ability to defend democracy depends on our ability to define democracy. No nation can be neutral or afford to be indifferent to the fate of other free people because if they lose their freedom, we shall lose ours. There must be no misunderstanding about this—no isolationism as we had prior to 1939. We must shoulder the responsibility that America has assumed in the United Nations.

"It is the destiny of our generation to use the principle of democracy which our fathers gave to use to set out for ourselves what we want. It is our destiny to reaffirm the Declaration of Independence to show and to prove to the world that there is no problem so great that the American people will not tackle it—nor no war too dangerous to win in the name of democracy. It will be the fate of our generation that we fulfill this destiny or perish in the pages of history."

About 12 members of the sheriff's posse were still looking last night for Donald Price, 22, veteran of World War II, who was reported missing from his home on the Ridge road yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Pepper, at press time last night, said the search was being centered along Deer creek between the Champion and Jenny Lind mines.

OUR CONGRESSMAN REPORTS:

By CLAIR ENGLE

Grazing Fee Error Admitted

A hearing was held last week on H. R. 8821, authorizing reimbursement to the county governments for the moneys which over the past 25 years have been illegally diverted by the forest service. The general accounting office, which is the federal agency charged with the responsibility for okaying the legality of all federal fiscal transactions, appeared before the committee and testified that the action of the forest service in diverting a portion of the forest receipts from grazing was illegal. The general accounting office rather sheepishly admitted that it should have caught the error and required the forest service instead of placing these moneys in a special fund to put them in the treasury where it belonged and where the county governments would have received their full 25 percent for roads and schools. This testimony without question establishes a legal basis not only for congress to authorize reimbursement to the counties, but for the respective states to bring suite in the court of claims for the amount of these funds going back six years. There is a six-year statute of limitations on actions in the court of claims. Since the illegal diversion of these funds goes back over a period of 25 years, it was thought better to introduce a special bill and get the whole matter cleaned up in one transaction. The total amount of money due to the counties mostly in my district, is the sum of $126,000.

Mining Bill Held Up

Mining suffered another blow when the rules committee this week by a tie vote refused to permit floor consideration of a new bill I have introduced providing for government participation in exploration and development of critical and strategical minerals and metals. Apparently, any assistance to the mining industry this session is a very thin hope. Strangely enough, the men on the rules committee voting against this necessary assistance to the mining industry, which is vital to our national security, are the beneficiaries in their own districts of huge subsidies for cotton, tobacco, peanuts and other agricultural products. With the Korean war dramatizing the dangerous position of the U. S., it would seem that even more serious consideration will be given to safeguarding the position of this country on these critical and strategic minerals and metals absolutely essential to our survival if we get into an all-out shooting war.

Mining Work Period Extended

The president has signed into law S. 3639 which extends until Oct. 1, 1950, the time in which claimholders may perform their assessment work for the current year. The measure also provides that assessment work or improvements required for the year ending July 1, 1951 may be commenced immediately following July 1, 1950. This action permits the claimholder to perform his assessment work for the current year and the next fiscal year at the same time.

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO CRASH SATURDAY

Four local persons were injured Saturday night in a broadside collision on the Nevada City-Grass Valley highway between cars driven by Edward Deschwanden and Mrs. Ruth Wood, both of Nevada City. Bertha Doppelmayer, passenger in the Wood vehicle, was most seriously injured and was only one hospitalized. She suffered lacerations and bruises.

Gene Pierratti, a passenger in the Deschwanden car, and both drivers received minor injuries.

Deschwanden was cited for reckless driving. According to the report of the California highway patrol, the accident occurred near the Spring Hill development after Deschwanden tried to pass on the right hand side while traveling towards Grass Valley, and the car went out of control when it hit the gravel shoulder and was whipped across the highway to be struck broadside by the Nevada City-bound Wood car.

TWO GRASS VALLEY MEN AWARDED HERO MEDALS

For "initiative, prompt and intelligent action" which saved the life of Ed J. Fournier, Downieville truck driver, when his truck plunged over a 70-foot embankment near North San Juan Nov. 4, 1949, Charles K. Smith and Glenn B. Kinter, both of Grass Valley, have been awarded the Bronze Vail medal.

The action was taken by the 1950 regional committee of the Theodore N. Vail memorial fund.

The story of the episode which appears in the Pacific Telephone magazine follows:

"Charles Smith and Glen Kinter were returning from a work assignment on the afternoon of Nov. 4, 1949, when they came upon a light freight truck that had gone over a seventy-foot embankment near North San Juan.

"Sensing a bad accident, the two men hurried to the overturned truck to find the driver pinned in the cab of the machine, seriously injured. They quickly attached a winch line from their company truck to the cab of the wrecked vehicle in order to remove pressure of the wreckage from the injured man. Then using a chain hoist and slings they succeeded in pulling the cab into a position so that the door could be cut away with a hack saw and bolt cutters. The injured driver was then removed from the wreckage, and had been carried only a short distance when the truck burst into flames and was totally demolished.

"By their initiative, prompt and intelligent action, Kinter and Smith saved a human life. Their efforts in the interest of the public exemplified the finest traditions of the telephone service."

JOHN P. ARBOGAST CALLED BY DEATH AFTER 86 YEARS HERE

Funeral services were held at St. Canice Catholic church Saturday morning for John P. Arbogast, 90, who died Thursday evening at the Nevada county hospital. Rev. Father William Daly, pastor of the church, officiated. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

Pallbearers were Carl J. Tobiassen, J. J. Jackson, Charles Graham, Tom Richards, Lorin Williams and Merton Loney.

John Peter Arbogast was born Nov. 1, 1859, at Freeburg, Pa. He came to California with his family at the age of four, traveling via the Isthmus of Panama. The family first lived on Hart's Hill near Porter's Mill and later moved to the Scott ranch.

Arbogast attended local schools and married Deed Landrigan on Dec. 29, 1886. They moved to the old Cooper sawmill site where he lived until a short time before his death.

A farmer and lumberman by vocation, Arbogast's avocation was local history and he enjoyed telling of the early days. One of his favorite stories concerned the time he drove the Bloomfield stage after the driver, A. Myers, was killed by highwaymen.

He was a member of the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are two sons, Kenneth and Raemah Arbogast, Blue Tent; two daughters, Mrs. Retta Morgan, Sacramento, and Mrs. Mary Skeahan, Nevada City; two brothers, Dr. A. A. Arbogast, San Francisco, and Cary S. Arbogast, Nevada City; two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Taylor of Hanford and Mrs. Keturah Davis of Blue Tent; eight grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

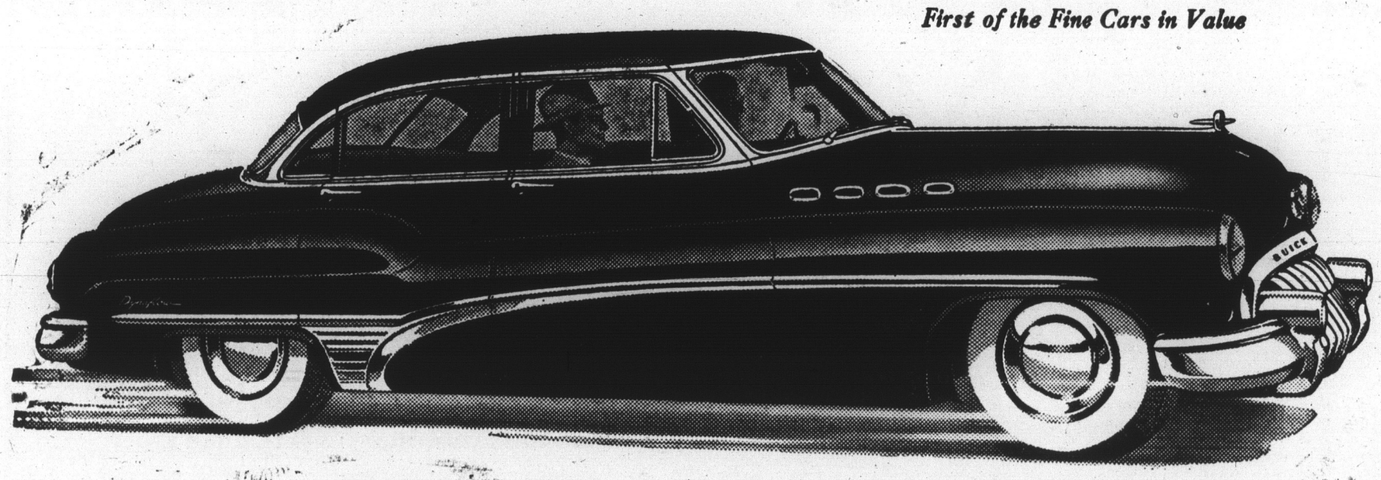
First of the Fine Cars in Value



The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

WE think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflow-cushioned take-off—

Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this:

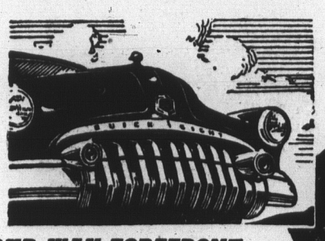
That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflow Drive standard: A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.



FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT

This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs — vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

SCOOP! LOLA MONTEZ GIVES EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW TO NUGGET

By Paul Fredericksen

I have just interviewed "Lola Montez." I mean the charming young woman who appeared, all in blue net and satin ruffles, with blue bonnet and parasol, riding a blue float down Broad street in the Children's Parade on Saturday and again on the Fourth of July.

She is beautiful, this parader who bore the printed placard "Lola Montez." And the young miner who pulled the float along was as fiery and dashing as any gold hunter of a century ago. Both Lola's beauty and her escort's pride made me timid about starting the interview.

"Hello," I began, as the judges were awarding the pair a prize ribbon.

She didn't seem to hear me.

"Hello, Lola," I said then. At that, a quick turn of her head set brown curls bobbing, and dark eyes smiled at me. So did a mouth which had pearly teeth in it and a little stain of orange lollypop around it.

"Did you have fun in the parade, Lola?" I asked, knowing full well that the Lola Montez of the 1850s always had fun in parades whether in Grass Valley or before crowned heads in Europe.

I got a nod and another smile.

"Do you know about the real Lola Montez?" I now inquired.

A shake of brown curls, and another smile.

"Lola's" mother, Mrs. Rod McKean, 114 Reward Street, smiled too. "Janet," she said, "why don't you speak to the man?"

"No," said Janet, putting her smile into her voice, "I don't know her."

"How old are you, Janet?"

"Five."

Further interviewing of Janet and others brought out these facts:

The idea of the "Lola Montez" float came from Janet's mother, who had always been a Lola Montez fan. Sewing of the costume was done by Mrs. McKean and her neighbor, Mrs. Harry J. Kessel. The wagon for the float was furnished by the Kessel son, Philip, 11. And it was Philip, wearing a mustache of eyebrow pencil and a real miner's helmet and lamp, who pulled the float in the parades.

Janet, though only five, had some parade experience. Four years ago, at the age of 17 months she rode in a Fourth of July parade at Colfax. That time too she was surrounded by blue; only it was blue hydrangeas arranged on a white-draped pickup truck.

Mrs. McKean likes Janet in blue. But if you ask Janet, "Are your eyes blue?" she will smile and answer, "No! They're brown, like my daddy's."

SHADES OF ERNIE PINKERT; WHAT A BLOCK

A few years back when Howard Jones produced the greatest college football team of all time—the rampaging Trojans of the early 30's, gridiron fans often saw "Rosey" Rosenberg or Ernie Pinkert sweep around end leading interference for "Cotton" Warburton or Orv Mohler, and take out the defensive end with a bone-crunching block that sent the player up-ended into the air and definitely out of the play.

A demonstration of such perfect blocking made an unscheduled appearance Saturday morning during the time trials of the coaster derby.

As John Raetz was wheeling his coaster across the Pine street intersection of Broad, Norval Hammond, 35, walked into the pathway of the coaster and was struck below the knees. Hammond was upended, bounced off the hood of the vehicle and hit the pavement head first.

Two bystanders helped him to his feet and he walked away, apparently not seriously injured.

KE-STON GIVEN SEWAGE PLANT BUILDING TASK

The Ke-Ston Construction Co., South Gate, was awarded a contract for construction of Nevada City's sewage disposal plant by the city council as a special session last Friday night at city hall. The Ke-Ston bid was $99,775, more than $20,000 under the estimated cost of $120,000.

The company is completing the construction of the Grass Valley plant this month and work is expected to get underway here this month.

H. J. Ray, retired rear admiral who was appointed to the city council in June, was sworn in by George H. Calanan, veteran city clerk who has probably sworn in and at more city councilmen than any other man alive.

Ray will serve out the unexpired term of Leo J. Cullen, who resigned for business reasons.

A formal resolution awarding the contract for construction of the sewage plant was adopted at last night's regular meeting of the city council.

Arthur and Enrico Gagliardi, operators of the garbage collecting concession, appeared before the council and asked an increase from 50 to 75 cents for collection of domestic garbage.

Art Gagliardi also requested the council restrain others from collecting garbage, pointing out they have an exclusive contract for collection in Nevada City.

Gagliardi said they are collecting garbage from 200 families, and that there are about 800 families living in the community.

Ray suggested a survey be made to determine how the other 600 families are disposing of their garbage.

the right of way for the big parade.

One feature of the heat which was a concealed blessing to derby officials: the tar surface of the race course got so soft the coasters were slowed down, reducing speed and its inevitable hazard to the youthful drivers. In spite of a few spills, there were no injuries among derby entries but Ike Bell picked up a charley-horse in his excitement.

The historical edition which we published last week was the largest ever put out by The Nugget, we believe: 16 pages all carefully written in one theme. Ken and I had talked about a special a long time ago but preparations had been delayed until the last Saturday. The entire edition was written, sold, set in type, printed and folded in six days: a total effort of 170 man hours or more than ten hours to a page. Not a single advertiser whom we approached refused to buy space; our regret is that we did not have sufficient time to widen the scope and coverage of the edition. But now that we have had a taste, we will plan a bigger and better history edition next time.

The junior parade, another "first" this year, showed fine originality in theme, splendid organization of effort, and colorful showmanship seldom equalled anywhere. The little tots who took part in the parade were game sports. Their parents should be warmly commended for the family cooperation which made the colorful and ingenious entries possible.

We carefully scanned the line of march behind the sheriff's posse and the Nevada County Horsemen but we didn't see Bob Paine. When accused of ducking his responsibilities, Bob pointed his nose in the air, took a sniff, and declared, "Well, nobody can say this is a one-horse town now, anyway."

Frank Stewart, the postman-showman who did such a fine job of putting on the variety shows, would like to organize and present a semi-monthly public show during the rest of the summer months. He hopes to obtain sponsorship and would appreciate an expression of interest from the community. If Frank would sign a solemn pledge to clean up his stories and speed up his acts, he could have anything he wants. Far as I'm concerned, he can have it anyway.

20,000 WITNESS HOLIDAY CELEBRATION

J. N. Ott operating a 10-stamp mill in the other.

Camp Calafia and its Girl Scout activities, were followed by Max Solaro's working model of a locomotive, with Johnny Nolan at the whistle cord and throttle. The locomotive will be placed in operation at Pioneer park as soon as Solaro rounds up enough rail.

Laurel Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, was followed by Beryl Granholm riding side saddle in an old fashioned costume.

The Native Sons stage coach that used to run to Graniteville was followed by the VFW Auxiliary float to complete the first division.

The Grass Valley division was headed by the concert band, city council, chamber of commerce, and Manzanita parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The Grass Valley fire department float depicted a junior fire wagon drawn by juvenile firemen.

The float of the Grass Valley BPWC was followed by the Grass Valley Rotary club float, an ingenious Rotary wheel that hoisted a mine car up an incline.

The two floats of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Grass Valley was without a doubt the best display in the parade. Designed by Mahlon Schmidt, 19, a student at the College of the Pacific, the floats were symbolic of a persons trail to the pearly gates, entrance through and finally becoming a "rider of the sky" as symbolized by Alice Applegate, 15, on the pink horse.

The Grass Valley Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Townsend Club and 4-H clubs were completed by the Smartville float and its mama sheep.

Earl Covey and his compatriots of Quartz Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West were driven by in a two-horse surrey with the fringe on top.

Dow Alexander, exuberantly bathing himself in an 1850 tub brought down the house, and several of the laughs sounded envious.

Arch's Richfield Station wa followed by Burns and Airington carelessly scattering gold nuggets to the crowd.

Bill Hammond's boys camp float was followed by the Woods Van and Storage company, depicting the Mountain Boys, complete to the Chick Sales special and grandpa framed on the side.

The Nuggeteers performed a Virginia reel on the back of a flat-bed truck.

A donkey and cart, mule team featuring the Gold Trail express, a buckboard, the Grass Valley Elks depicting 100 years of progress, and the Seabee Reserves completed the division.

Nevada City fire department's float of the first fire house led the next division followed by the state division of forestry.

The Fire Ladies depicted fashions of yesteryear, and officers of the Nevada City BPWC rode by in a sedan.

M. E. Reed and Jake Pfosi, of Roseville, as prospectors, accompanied three donkeys. Nevada City Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Neighbors of Woodcraft were followed by the Dodge Lumber Co. hauling a huge log. Some spectators speculated on whether the lumber company had entered the huge log or whether they were camouflaging it past a blocked highway.

The local Elks presented the history of the flag.

The Bartenders and Culinary Workers local had a miniature bar as a float, followed by the Lions club and the Nevada City Elementary School Parent-Teachers association float.

The Salvation army band completed the division.

Nevada county sheriff's posse led by Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins, the Nevada County Horsemen's association, and the Tahoe national forest pack train unit completed the parade.

ATHLETICS LOSE BOTH HOLIDAY DIAMOND GAMES

The Grass Valley Braves of the Placer-Nevada baseball league and the independent Chico Dons hung defeats on the Nevada City Athletics in exhibition games as a part of the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration.

Both games were decided in the last inning of play.

Pinch-hitter Don Burt homered with one aboard in the ninth inning Sunday to give the Chico team a 7-5 decision over the Athletics. Up to that points Nevada City had led all the way.

The Grass Valley game on the Fourth went into an extra inning with Jack Cramer scoring the deciding run from third on a tag-up after Carl Thompson skied to Bob Capps in left field.

The Athletics resume play in the Placer-Nevada league Sunday, playing host to the Folsom team that has been hot and cold most of this season.

The first round game with Folsom Nevada City was sporting a 17-12 lead in the seventh inning when the roof caved in and Folsom scored 21 times in the one inning. Folsom won the wild game in a high wind 37-17.

Steve Pelayo will send Lynn Roath to the mound in Sunday's game which is slated to start at 2:30 p.m. in Pioneer park.
